3300 FEET OF NEW MAINS BEING LAID

CITY WATER TURNED OFF FOR 7 HOURS LAST NIGHT.

2 PAVING ORDINANCES

Will Be Adopted By City Council Tonight—For West Thompson and West Lincoln Streets.

Approximately 3,300 feet of 4-inch water mains are in process of being laid this spring by the City Water Department and Mayor W. O. Garrett reports that already 400 feet of new mains have been put in. The purpose of putting in the new mains on such an extensive scale is to provide the outlying districts with better fire protection, as fire plugs are being connected up with the mains, and also to enable the property owners to connect their residences with the water mains.

The city water was turned off from 11 o'clock last night until 6 o'clock this morning according to Mayor Garrett this morning. Mr. Garrett said that it was necessary to cut off the water supply for a few hours last night to enable the City Water Department to replace valves in the mains at the intersection of Cooper and Main streets, intersection of First and Saunders streets; and to put in a new connection in the mains at the intersection of South Saunders street and Jenkins avenue.

Mayor Garrett explained that this was the reason that the city water was slightly discolored this morning when first run out of the faucets. He asid that the city was amply protected against fire danger during the night, as in case there was a fire reported the mains that were being repaired could be immediately closed temporarily and the water turned on at the water tower.

Other mains that are being laid are at the corner of Saunders and Jenkins, running west three blocks and then south two blocks to Cooper street where it connects with a six inch main there. Also a 4 inch main connects present water main at the interesction of South Walnut and Torrance street and runs two blocks south on Walnut street to south side of Walnut, crossing Lincoln street where a new fire plug will be placed on south side of the paving.

A new water main makes a connection at the intersection of North Walnut street and Prather avenue running north one block and then east one block to Mulberry where a new fire plug will be placed. This will furnish two outlying districts with fire protection, Mayor Garrett said.

The City Water Department has already put in 400 feet of 4 inch mains on Grand Avenue running north on Grand from Third street to the State Teachers College.

The City Council meets this evening for the adoption of two paving ordinances, that last two paving projects that are at the present time proposed, namely on West Thompson street from Buchanan west to Walnut street and on west Lincoln street from Buchanan street west to Walnut street and 132 feet west of west line of Walnut, making in all six blocks from intersection to intersection and 132 feet.

Mayor Garrett, in commenting on the final day of the Clean-Up Campaign, which was yesterday, said that the wagons and trucks travelled over all the streets in the city yesterday and picked up all the rubbish that was placed on the parkways. The Mayor was satisfied with the Clean-Up work carried on during the week. Eighty-two wagon and truck loads of rubbish were checked in at the dumping grounds by the men employed by the city besides the numerous loads that were hauled by others.

VANGUARD OF K. C. PARTY HERE TODAY

A GOODFELLOWSHIP TOUR IS SCHEDULED HERE JUNE 24.

TO BE OUT FOR 5 DAYS

Arriving ahead of schedule in a Marmon sport automobile, five Kansas City business men clad in red-trimmed union-alls and red and white caps, the Pathfinder Party of the Good-Fellowship tour of Kansas City men next month, stopped in Maryville this morning and made preliminary arrangements with a committee from the Chamber of Commerce and the Maryville Automobile Club at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

The party arrived shortly after 10:30 o'clock, having come from St. Joseph this morning, and met with L. M. Eek, J. R. Lowry, Mayor W. O. Garrett, Harvey Haines, Lawrence Schumacher, L. H. Brownfield and Frank Doyle.

The party consisting of Sam F. Baker of the Sam F. Baker Motor Co., driver of the Pathfinder; Harry S. Frazer, Union Bank Note Co.; Lyle L. Fogel, Fogel Construction Co., Dan B. Webb, Quigley Lithographing Co.; and L. K. Block, secretary of the Young Men's Division of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, are blazing the trail in a Marmon sport car and making arrangements for the motor tour which will bring the Kansas Cityans through Northwestern Missouri, Southeastern Iowa, Southeastern Nebraska and Northeastern Kansas on June 24th to 28th inclusive. It is planned to visit here an hour about 3 o'clock on Tuesday, June 24.

At the Chamber of Commerce this morning Mr. Block spoke briefly of the plans of the Goodfellowship tour, saying that "it is estimated that there will be 125 business men in the caravan of thirty-five automobiles on the trip in June. These men will give up their businesses for five days to make this trip to extend a glad hand to prove that Kansas City deserves the title, "The Heart of America." The sole purpose of the trip," according to the Pathfinder party "is to make new acquaintances and to engender goodfellowship and socialibility among the business men in the towns along the route."

This is the longest trip that the Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City has yet conducted by automobile and every possible detail will be worked out to make the trip successful when they visit here next month.

An orchestra will accompany the party.

It is being planned by the Chamber of Commerce and the Automobile Club that when the Kansas City business men arrive here on June 24, there will be an advanced guard of the Maryville business men out on the highway to meet the Caravan. The courthouse square will be used for the meeting place and the mixing of the Kansas City business men with Maryville citizens. A Kansas City speaker will give a very brief talk and perhaps a response from a Maryville business man.

The east side of Main street from Third to Fourth Streets will be roped off for the visiting cars. All the Kansas City party will be attired in union-alls of khaki with their names on the back.

The Pathfinder car was led out of the city this morning on the Burlington Junction road by George P. Sillers to the four-mile corner. Mr. Block said while he was here that they had an appointment at 9:30 o'clock this evening in Council Bluffs, and would spend the night in Omaha.

MILDRED NEW STARS

The 1924 senior class of the Maryville High School presented "Daddy Long Legs" as the graduation play to a capacity house at the College last night. The part of Miss Pritchard, the motherly guardian of Judy was played by Laura Margaret Raines. Miss Raines fitted exceptionally well in tihs role.

Sallie McBride and Julia Pendleton the College chums of Judy were played by Mary Fisher and Mayme Grems.

James McBribe, the vain and frivilous suitor of Miss Judy was played by Donald Bellows. This part added a light humorous touch to the play and kept the audience amused by his attempts to win the favor of Judy.

CONGRESS' ANGER AROUSED BY VETO

HOUSE PROBABLY WILL READOPT MEASURE TOMORROW.

EXCLUSION BILL PASSES

Rigid Immigration Bill Is Now Up to Coolidge—Is Expected President Will Sign Legislation.

Washington, May 16.—Congress boiled and fumed today over President Coolidge's veto of the soldier bonus bill.

No other issue that has arisen between the executive and legislative branches of the government has provoked so much angry comment at the capital as the sharp and pointed communication in which Mr. Coolidge expressed his disapproval of the bonus measure.

The veto itself, on the grounds of governmental economy, caused little surprise. What caused the trouble today was the President's attack of the bonus from the standpoint of patriotism and morality.

The House will act tomorrow and its readoption there is a foregone conclusion.

Bonus advocates in the Senate claimed to have a margin of four or five votes above the two-thirds necessary to repass the bill, but the President's friends dispute this and predicted the bonus will be beaten in the Senate as was the Bursum pension bill, which lost by the small margin of one vote.

Washington, May 16—The new immigration bill, excluding all Japanese from the United States after July 1, went to the White House today for President Coolidge's approval or rejection.

In addition to barring other Orientals as well as Japanese, the bill cuts all immigration quotas to 2 per cent of the 1890 census. The old and existing law allowed a 3 per cent quota.

A number of minor exceptions were allowed at the last minute, under which the wives and children of aliens who have taken steps to become citizens will be admitted "outside the quota."

Exemptions also were granted to professors and kinisters.

Advocates of the Japanese exclusion measure declared today they expect the President to sign the measure with a public statement to the world that no slight was intended the Far Eastern empires, and thus appease the wounded pride of the Japanese people.

Charles Hart Will Face Trial Murder

(St. Joseph News-Press.)

A panel of 160 men has been drawn by Judge Allen in preparation for the trial of Charles Hart, charged with first degree murder, which is on call for Monday in Division No. 1 of the circuit court. DuVal Smith, prosecuting attorney, stated that the state would be ready for trial, and that he would ask the jury to assess the death penalty.

Hart is charged with shooting and fatally wounding John Less, a police patrolman, last October, after he had been placed under arrest at the Elms Hotel. Hart, according to other officers, was being placed in the patrol wagon when he jerked away and ran. Less was giving chase when the fatal shot was fired.

Hart made his escape at the time, but was arrested two days later when police officers traced him to a farm house near Elmo, Mo. Since that time he has been held in the Buchanan County jail without bond. The case was called in Judge Utz's court last term, but was taken to Judge Allen on a change of venue.

It is believed that Hart's attorneys, Stephen K. Owen and John Heffley, will attempt to prove that Less was killed by a bullet from a fellow officer's gun. Hart, it is understood, had been searched by the police earlier in the evening and no gun was found on him. However, R. V. France, who was arrested with him, charged with carrying a gun, has been released, and his case continued generally. It is presumed that he will be used by the state.

WILL SUBMIT NEW WORLD COURT PLAN

SENATOR PEPPER IS AUTHOR OF PROPOSAL.

"COMPOSITE" DOCUMENT

Embodies Principles of Other Plans Already Submitted to Senate—Is Fourth to Be Offered.

Washington, May 16.—A new World Court plan will make its bow to the Senate and the country in a few days.

It will bear the authorship of Senator George W. Pepper, Republican of Pennsylvania, an earnest advocate of the settlement of international disputes by judicial methods and who presided recently over the public hearing on the issue held by a Senate committee.

Senator Pepper announced his plan would be a "composite" World Court proposal embodying the principles outlined by others who have brought their proposals to the Senate. Pepper's will be the fourth to be offered.

The chances are, however, his plan will join the Harding-Hughes, Lenroot and Lodge plans in the committee's pigeon-hole until next session at least, providing the issue is threshed out in the coming campaign.

Dr. O. L. Curl Will Occupy Savannah Pulpit

(Savannah Reporter).

Dr. O. L. Curl, who is prosecuting attorney of Nodaway County, has been occupying the pulpit at the First M. E. church at Savannah for the past three or four Sundays and has been persuaded to agree to come every Sunday and be the pastor until the annual conference convenes in September.

Dr. Curl grew up in Ohio and finished school to become an attorney and later took up the ministry. He was pastor several years in Ohio and came to the Missouri conference four years ago. He was pastor two years at Maryville and two years ago was elected prosecuting attorney and has served with pleasing success. He is considered over Nodaway County one of the most forceful of thinkers and doers.

The wonderful sermons during the past four Sundays have wrought an influence in the lives of Savannah residents. His many helpful thoughts savor of the inspired as a visitor to that church recently said, "He seems to have walked and talked with God." Indeed he is a wonderfully developed soul and "seems to draw men unto him."

Next Sunday, May 16, the congregation and pastor and family will have a special day for becoming acquainted by bringing well-filled baskets for the noonday meal. At this meeting special interests of the church will be advanced. All families and friends are urged to be present.

Car Overturns with Seven Occupants

Two Girls Are Slightly Injured in Accident Near Skidmore Last Tuesday—Couldn't Turn Corner

(Skidmore News.)

A Ford car overturned Tuesday afternoon about 4:45 o'clock with five girls and two boys, but it is thought that none of them received serious injuries.

The occupants had been to the track meet at the school house and started to town. The car was coming down the hill at a pretty good speed and when the attempt was made to turn west at the pump house, the car skidded a little and the left front and back wheels broke down. The car turned completely over and all received some minor injuries except Robert Jackson, who was driving the car, and Dollie Rea Logan.

Robert started the car at a good speed and when he went to put on the brakes, he discovered that there were no brake son the car. The car had begun to slow up when he reached the corner and if they had gone on south, the accident would probably had been averted, but the car was going a little faster than he thought it was and he didn't go on south, so the accident happened.

Louise Logan received a cut on her upper lip and several bruised places about her head and body. Helen McMahon received a cut on the bone in the palm of her right hand and seven stitches were taken. Marguerite Merritt's back was twisted and it has been bothering her some.

Those in the care were: Louise Logan, Helen McMahon, Marguerite Merritt, Dollie Rea and Evelyn Logan, Robert Jackson and Lee Shull.

The car belonged to Dean Shull, who came to town and drove the car home that evening.

All were back in school Wednesday morning except Helen McMahon and Marguerite Merritt.

Among out-of-town visitors in Maryville yesterday were Will Doran, Conception Junction; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brown, Quitman; Mrs. Roe Elkins and Mrs. Dailey Foster, Parnell; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Miller, Burlington Junction; Mr. and Mrs. Arch Slagle and family, Ravenwood; J. A. Kavanaugh and Mr. and Mrs. John McDowell, Graham.

From the First Telegram to Today's Radio

Hailed by the whole world as a marvelous feat, the sending of the first "dot and dash" message by wire on May 24, 1844, was a triumph for Morse and American inventive genius.

But the world today has reached the point where trans-Atlantic broadcasting and round-the-world aircraft flights are accepted almost as everyday happenings.

The developments in new conveniences, new devices, new comforts have been matched by developments of new services—

Gasoline Prices Lowest

AFTER extensive analysis of government statistics, The Oil & Gas Journal, of March 20, 1924, says:

"Gasoline is and has been the lowest priced commodity generally used during the past eleven years, and its average cost during that period has been always lower than the average price of all commodities."

Taking 1913 price level as 100, the January, 1924, price level of all commodities is 151—while the price of gasoline is only 97.

Thus it is shown that in January, 1924, the dollar would actually buy more gasoline than it would in 1913.

The statement of the Oil & Gas Journal bears out the statements oft repeated by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) that the price of gasoline is low.

That the petroleum industry has been able to keep down the price of gasoline is an achievement worthy of note.

It demonstrates the efficiency of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and other similar institutions.

This result has been accomplished without in any way sacrificing quality of product, nor has it been accompanied by any decrease of service.

For example, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is constantly expanding its vast net-work of service stations, located, necessarily, on high-priced property in order to be accessible to the main arteries of travel. These stations are open for service, days, evenings, Sundays and holidays.

In addition, huge sums of money have been expended by this Company for other equipment—bulk storage depots, pumps, tank wagons, and other items necessary to render a complete and comprehensive service—yet with all these large expenditures the price level of gasoline in 1924 was lower than in 1913.

All of which is in support of the ideals animating the Management of this Company—a combination of high quality, best service, and low prices.

Farm Film to Be Shown at Empire

The Holt Supply Co. has secured the one-reel feature production, "The Power Farmer," recently released by the International Harvester Co. of America, and this will be shown at the Empire Theater Saturday night.

It shows modern harvesting and threshing machines, tractor-puiled, in the fields east of the Mississippi, in the West and far West. For in each section of the country different machines have been developed along lines adapting them especially to conditions in that particular part of the country. It is an educational film that should have an intimate interest for everyone in city and country alike who wants to see at work the machines that have stood so staunchly by the American farmer in his effort to produce food for a hungry world.

O. A. R. HOLDS LAST SESSION OF SEASON

the Norse or Icelandic. The Norse is the most complete of all systems of mythology. While the Norse and Greek parallel in many ways they have two very definite characteristics. One can say that the Greek characteristic is that of beauty while the Norse is one of rugged strength. The great charm of all mythology is the personification of the natural elements as gods. In the Norse, heat is the God Loke, the mischief maker, but when it is the wild devastating fire it is the Giant Loge.

"One story tells of how Loke in a prankish mood cut off the hair of Sif, wife of Thor, the God of Thunder. The Gods are much enraged at Loke for this act and he is forced to obtain new hair for Sif. Loke calls upon his friends the dwarfs who forge golden hair that grows almost instantly upon Sif's head. The interpretation of this story is that Sif, is the earth and when the heat (Loke) has destroyed the verdure, with the aid of the other elements, Loke again grows golden (that is, bright colored) verdure to replace what has been destroyed.

"The story of the Ydgrasil is a complete history of the Universe. The Ydgrasil is a tree with one branch called Asaheim the home of the Gods, another branch is Johnunheif, the home of the Giants, while the roots are Neifelheim, the home of the serpents that constantly gnaw at the vitals of the tree. Bifrost, is the rainbow, which extends from Asaheif to upper branches of the tree which is the assembly hall of the Gods. All the Gods can cross the Bridge Bifrost, except Thor, the God of Thunder, because of his ferocious temper he might destroy the bridge (the rainbow) so he must use other means of reaching the Hall of the Gods.

"The entire myth is a beautiful poetical imaginative tale which if closely studied will reflect itself in the character of its readers. The God over all Gods Odin, has two ravens, Hugin and Munin, who sit on his shoulder and constantly whisper in his ear. Hugin is Reflection and Munin is Memory. Odin was the wisest of all Gods, and does it not follow that if we of today would allow these two attributes of reflection and memory constantly whisper to us, that our wisdom would grow apace?"

The program was concluded with a group of piano numbers by Mrs. Ferdinand Townsend, who played "Butterfly" and "Ausdem Carnival" by Grieg, a Scandinavian composer. During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Uel W. Lamkin, Mrs. Ferdinand Townsend, Mrs. L. E. Forsyth, Miss Edwyna Forsyth, Mr. Lauris Eek, Mrs. W. C. Nelson of Parnell, and these non-resident members, Mrs. Julia Jones and Mrs. Fred Breit, both of Parnell.

The Maryville chapter will sponsor a flower show to be held next month according to present plans. Arrangements for the affair are in the hands Fred Harvey, Mrs. D. J. Thomas, Mrs. of Mrs. Joseph Jackson, chairman, assisted by the following members: Mrs. Dale Bellows, Mrs. C. C. Corwin and L. M. Eek, Mrs. Charles Bell, Mrs. Mrs. J. F. Montgomery.

Tries Kellogg's Bran—restores health after 12 years of intense suffering

Mr. Firth writes that he suffered for 12 years from constipation and his friend for 10 years—a total of 22 years' suffering permanently relieved by Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled.

Gentlemen:
For 12 years I had been troubled with indigestion caused mostly by constipation. Until about a year ago, I would suffer from 4 to 20 weeks at a time.
I happened to see your Krumbled Bran in a store, purchased a package and got almost immediate relief. I am still eating the Krumbled Bran every day.
The most wonderful results obtained with your Krumbled Bran I will now relate. A gentleman who has been taking medicine for about 10 years for constipation could not find anything to give him relief. Three weeks ago I advised him to try Krumbled Bran, as I had told him what wonderful results I had gotten from it. The gentleman in question purchased a box, and he told me that for the first time in ten years he is regular without taking medicine.
Yours for success,
William Firth, Jr., 56 Volan St., Merchantville, N. J.

Eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to relieve the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. The flavor is delicious. Try it in the recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

Great Improvement in Sanitary Conditions

G. E. Gelvin, In Maryville Today, Says Conditions Are Much Better in Local Stores.

A great improvement has been made in the sanitary conditions in the business places of food and drug dealers in Maryville in the last six months, according to G. E. Gelvin, state food and drug inspector for this section of Missouri, who is in Maryville today.

Mr. Gelvin said he made his first inspection here on October 1 of last year and has found conditions in the stores and restaurants here very much improved since that time.

It is Mr. Gelvin's duty to inspect the business places of egg dealers, grocery and drug stores, soda fountains, restaurants and hotels, in order to protect the buying public against insanitary food.

Ebert on Vacation After Successful Year with Local M. H. S. Athletes

Harold G. Ebert, high school coach, left this afternoon for Des Moines, Ia. He was accompanied by Ossie Solem, football coach at Drake University, who arrived here last evening to see some prospects, members of the Maryville High School graduating class. Ebert was one of Solem's backfield men when he was playing with the Bulldog eleven at Drake.

Mr. Ebert, after driving to Des Moines, Ia., will take a trip east to his home in Ohio and then will return to Drake University to attend summer school there which commences on June 10. He will take up advanced courses in education.

Coach Ebert leaves on his vacation with an envious record for a coach who has been at a school only one year and with brighter prospects for the 1924-25 season in all branches of sports with the Spoofhounds.

He took hold of the Spoofhound football squad the first week in October last fall and put out a team, which cities opined, could not be beat for its weight in the high school class. The cage squad, although being defeated in the Northwest Missouri tournament, won the majority of its games and the track team this year copped the Northwest Missouri track and field meet and the American Legion meet at Albany.

Mr. Ebert will probably be in Maryville at times during the summer months and will return the latter part of August to get his football squad lined up for the fall schedule.

DAY NURSERIES.

If the mothers of Maryville only had more places where they could leave their children in competent care for an afternoon or evening, what a blessing it would be.

There are women whose children have all grown up, women who love the laughter—and the cries—of little tots. They would gladly care for them.

They should establish day nurseries in their homes, where kiddies could be left in care and safety.

They should be known as community mothers, specialists at entertaining little folks.

Such occupation would not only be lucrative, but would also afford a contact with children which yields infinite returns.

If there are such community mothers, they should use the Democrat-Forum Want Ads as effective "kiddie-getters."

The True Story of Woodrow Wilson

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

CHAPTER XXII.
The Two Shocks That Almost Unnerved Mr. Wilson—The Outbreak of the European War and the Death of His Wife.

If Woodrow Wilson's problems were such as to break the vitality of much stronger men in the first year of his administration, those burdens seem in recollection to be relatively insignificant compared to the mental strain he suffered when war broke out in Europe in July 1914, just seventeen months after his inauguration.

To the world itself August 1914 will always be a date which separates one epoch from another in the history of mankind. Even more abrupt was the change which that historic month made in the life and career of Woodrow Wilson. It was a turning point hardly perceived at the time as he struggled not only with matters of state but with a melancholy induced by the death of Mrs. Ellen Axson Wilson.

For more than a year in the White House the restraints of official obligation and the artificial atmosphere of the Executive Mansion with its enforced seclusion for the Chief Executive had troubled Mr. Wilson's spirit and given him hours of unforgettable loneliness.

His was a restless soul, seeking self-expression, wishing that official cares and responsibilities could be swept aside and the free air of irresponsibility breathed once more. In a torment of conflicting desires he lived from day to day. His craving for companionship was pathetic. He longed for old friends. He yearned for the freedom of other days. He saw himself imprisoned in the White House forced to do many things which an artistic temperament and irresponsible spirit would never have tolerated in private life. He was devoted to his family, to his wife and daughters. The birth of the first grandchild had brought joy to the household. The marriage of his youngest daughter Eleanor to the Secretary of the Treasury, William Gibbs McAdoo, had made the last days of Mrs. Wilson's life happy. Both the President and Mrs. Wilson were very fond of Mr. McAdoo and in a letter to a personal friend written at that time Mr. Wilson described the affair as a genuine love match which had the hearty sympathy of the whole family.

The death of Mrs. Wilson a short time after the marriage cast a shadow of despair over the White House. Although the physicians had anticipated that the illness would be fatal Mr. Wilson did not know until a few days before death came that he would be deprived of his life companion. His answers to letters at that time revealed the depth of his feeling. Tenderly he said farewell at her last resting place in Rome, Georgia, whither he had gone, consoled only in the thought that her life had as long been spared.

It was under such circumstances that Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States and bereaved husband, fought alone the trying problems which beset him in the neutrality days.

On the night England declared war against Germany, Mr. Wilson was walking slowly from the Executive office to the White House when the message reached him from the State Department that England had declared war on Germany.

"Let us pray that Germany will not develop a von Moltke" was Mr. Wilson's spontaneous comment. He had been apprised of the situation in Europe by Colonel House and had followed carefully the course of affairs since the assassination of the Austrian Archduke. Recognizing that the world would expect the United States to intervene with its good offices, Mr. Wilson made the customary tender of mediation and was, of course, brushed aside by the belligerents who were already at each other's throats.

Historian that he was, Mr. Wilson saw at once the far-reaching effects of a European war. He told his friends that the entire course of the world would be changed by the war, and that whether the conflict would be of short or long duration, the world would never be the same.

Unhesitatingly, Mr. Wilson issued his proclamation to the American people asking them to be neutral in word, thought and deed. This statement was criticised abroad but it was after all in consonance with the legal requirements of the situation. From the very beginning the President recognized that the militarism of which the Kaiser was the exponent had contributed to the international rivalry and friction for a generation had enveloped Europe in war clouds. In those early days Mr. Wilson did not think it possible that the European belligerents would continue their warfare for more than six months at the outside. The turning of the German tide at the first Battle of the Marne brought hopes of an early peace. Feverishly the President watched the bulletins of battle but outwardly his calmness and reserve were unchanged.

To counteract the expressions of pro-ally sympathy, the German supporters in the United States began a campaign to win public opinion. Mr. Wilson feared the consequences especially as he saw the inevitable coalition of the anti-British elements including certain Irish and the German-Americans.

The existence of these two groups—the Irish-Americans and the German Americans—gave Mr. Wilson more to worry than any phase of the whole war situation. He did not fail to recognize how hotly flowed the blood of sympathy in the veins of the German whose kinsmen were battling on the Western Front. Nor did he blind his eyes to the fact that the Irish who had waited patiently to be delivered from the British crown could not resist the opportunity offered them of retaliation in a critical hour.

Two courses of action were open to Mr. Wilson in an effort to preserve an equilibrium inside the United States. He believed, for instance, that the failure of the British government to uphold traditional principles on the high seas in the rules of maritime warfare relating to neutral vessels must not be permitted to pass without protest. The British people resented Mr. Wilson's notes arguing that Great Britain was fighting "the battle of civilization" and that the United States should not annoy the British Navy with precedents or legal arguments. Ambassador Walter Hines Page at London shared the British view and wrote many emphatic letters to the President urging that the British be let alone. Mr. Wilson hoped in his heart, of course, that the Allies would win but for a time he was of the opinion that such a victory might be obtained without compromising the neutrality of the United States. Mr. Page's letters, many of which have been published, revealed that he was constantly trying to bring the United States government into a view more sympathetic with his own, and the difficulty which the readers of the future will have in appraising the significance of those epistles is that they may be read in the light of American participation in the war and not to be read in the light of American participation in the war and not in the background of the neutrality days in which they were written.

Mr. Page and President Wilson were constantly quarreling with one another over American policy and if it is true that the Washington government did not see eye to eye with Ambassador Page on what was happening in Europe, so it is also true that Ambassador Page did not appreciate what was happening contemporaneously in the United States.

Different conceptions there are, to be sure, of what the function of an American ambassador is or should be. Under the American form of government the President of the United States is charged with the conduct of foreign policy. With the guidance of the Secretary of State he formulates principles of action in conformity with what appears to be public opinion inside the United States and not outside. There are ambassadors who considers themselves to be not agents of the United States government charged with the responsibility of executing in the most tactful manner the instructions and commands given them by the President or Secretary of State, but who regard themselves as Secretaries of States residing abroad. Mr. Page felt that the Washington government should follow his recommendations. President Wilson felt that Mr. Page should follow the instructions given him by the Washington government. The controversy did not become public at the time but the author and other newspaper men were well aware of the friction and it was commonly reported that Mr. Wilson had said of Mr. Page that "he was too pro British."

Living in the London environment, Mr. Page was tempted to absorb the British viewpoint. He was a man with the courage of his convictions. While he did not believe at the time that his letters were having effect, there is no question of their influence in staying the hand of Mr. Wilson and the Department of State with reference to the transmission of protests not too violent in language or too threatening in tone. The British never for a moment were afraid that the United States might enter the war against them. They knew that all danger of that had been swept aside by the sinking of the Lusitania and the constant violation by Germany of American rights on the high seas destroying human lives whereas the British transgressions affected contraband property of American citizens.

The United States, moreover, was enjoying the beginnings of an industrial revival due to the heavy purchases made by the allied government in the United States, and prosperity was too good a political slogan to be scored in the campaign of 1916 wherein Mr. Wilson was to come up for re-election—a materialistic cosideration by no means controlling but present nevertheless as an incidental factor.

With respect to the Irish question, Mr. Wilson did realize that he could be of service both to the Americans of Irish descent and the British government, and he was not slow to let the British know that their cause in the United States was being injured by their policy toward Ireland. At the President's elbow stood an Irishman—Private Secretary Tumulty—who was well aware of the political value of the Irish question in the United States. Secretary Tumulty knew that large sections of the Democratic vote, especially in the large cities, came from the Irish and their sons. In his own home district, Jersey City, were thousands of Irish voters and he knew the importance of retaining their support throughout the country. Woodrow Wilson was always in sympathy with the aspirations of the Irish people—he knew history too well to regard the desires of the Irish as unnatural or repressible. He never lost a favorable opportunity to remind the British of the American relationship to the Irish question.

While the anti-war element in the United States during the campaign of 1916 was by no means made up of persons who sympathized with Germany as against Great Britain, thousands of anti-British partisans voted the Democratic ticket because of a belief that Mr. Wilson would keep the United States out of war on the side of England. In not a single speech or statement did President Wilson promise to keep the country out of war but the stump speakers did and the theme of the entire campaign as conducted by Democratic headquarters was a defense of Mr. Wilson's policy in refusing to go to war with Germany. From this the inference was celarly drawn that he was a candidate who would maintain peace. Nor was there anything tangible in the declaration of the Republican candidate, Charles Evans Hughes, to indicate that he would plunge the United States into war. Mr. Hughes confined himself simply to a general declaration of his intention, should he be elected, to assert American rights and protect American interests everywhere.

Irrespective of Mr. Wilson's own part in the campaign of 1916, the West certainly had the idea that Mr. Wilson's action in the past was an as-Since those momentous days, especi-Since those mementous doys, especially in view of the fact that within six months after the election of 1916, the United States was engaged in war against Germany, there has been a tendency to regard the Democratic campaign of 1916 as a deception and Mr. Wilson's part in it as an acquiescence at least in the program of peace.

The truth of the matter is that Woodrow Wilson feared that the United States might be drawn into the war against her will but never cherished the idea in 1916 that Germany would be so foolish as to drag America in to the conflict. Mr. Wilson's hopes were that United States might be meditator and peocemaker. For himself, he craved the privilege of intervening and giving the basis of peace to the belligerents. He made a speech in which he spoke of the possibility of "peace without victory" and it was widely misconstrued abroad as a desire on the part of Mr. Wilson to deprive the allies of the fruits of their ultimate triumph by a premature armistice. It was derided in America as an empty phrase. But what Mr. Wilson hoped for was that the deadlock might enable peace to be made on a basis that would not kindle the fires of revenge or sow the seeds of another war. He meant peace without revenge.

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

13 BEARCATS LEAVE FOR M. I. A. A. MEET

ANNUAL CONFERENCE MEET AT SPRINGFIELD.

STRONGER ON CINDERS

Coach Lawrence Has Good Mile and Half Mile Relay Teams—Tennis Team Is Not Taken.

The results of the M. I. A. A. Meet will be telegraphed to the Democrat-Forum immediately after the meet ends and the results will be posted on the office bulletin board. Those desiring to learn the results of the meet by telephone call Hanamo 42, Farmers 114.

H. Frank Lawrence, coach, and thirteen Bearcat track and field men, left this morning for Springfield to participate in the M. I. A. A. Conference Meet that will be held at the Southwest Missouri State Teachers College tomorrow. Lawrence had just returned from Maysville, where he had been an official at the Maysville Invitation Meet.

When asked about the prospects for the Bearcats at Springfield after the meet with Graceland College last week, Coach Lawrence said that he was not predicting the Bearcats would win the meet, or make an unusual showing. However, Lawrence commented that if the other colleges in the conference would split the events in which the Bears at Springfield were strongest, his men would hold their own when the score card was tallied. Lawrence said that Springfield has practically the same team that went out on the cinders and the field last year and were to be feared, and if Warrensburg, Cape Girardeau and Kirksville were weak in the events that Sprnigfield was strong ,he thought that Springfield would cop the meet.

Coach Lawrence has as good a track squad this year as ever represented the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College and with an even break of luck and the events are split up with any regularity the Bearcats should be towards the top when the last relay is run off.

The Bearcats presenting a well balanced team, are more formidable on the cinders than in the field events and the Northwest Teachers should chalk up some tallies in the short dashes, the 440-yard dash, the hardest run of any meet, the 880 yard run and, Smith, who ran a pretty mile at Drake, is a strong contender in this event. The mile and half mile relay teams this year are the outstanding features of the Bearcat squad and Lawrence, if he sees that the events are not being split up evenly, may save his men for the two relays.

The men that Coach Lawrence took with him and the events in which they are entered:

Captain Runyan, 220 hurdles and mile relay.

Dixie Davenport, 880; 1 mile relay and half mile relay.

George Smith, captain-elect, high hurdles, 440, 1 mile relay and half mile relay.

John Smith, 1 mile and 2 mile.

Eldon Steiger, 100, 220, 1 mile and half mile relay.

Paul Robey, 100, and half mile relay.

Irvin Wakely, pole vault.

R. Beam, high jump and pole vault.

Russell Culp, low hurdles and javelin.

Gordon Joy, javelin.

Ellis, Proffit, 440 and 1 mile relay.

Eldon Nichols, half mile relay and low hurdles.

The tennis team was not taken to Springiefld as all of the State Teachers Colleges did not enter tennis teams.

M'GILL WINS FALL BUT LOSES MATCH

AMID JEERS AND HOOTS LEWIS RETAINS TITLE

PATRICK IS FAVORITE

Had Wrestling Crowd With Him From First Until Last—Takes First in 3 Min. 3 Sec.

Kansas City, May 16—Ed ("Strangler") Lewis retains his title.

Patrick J. McGill, with an engaging smile and Irish ability to win approval, was cheered from the moment he entered the ring until he finally succumbed to the headlock at about 1 o'clock this morning.

Lewis was hissed and flayed with taunts during the entire session but these taunts seemingly had little effect, and his great comeback after losing the first fall is the reason the championship remains with him.

McGill, with surprising suddenness, gained a victory in the first fall after three minutes and three seconds, with a head scissors and bar armlock.

The champion resorted to cautious tactics in the second fall which required one hour, fifty-one minutes and ten seconds, until he finally wore McGill down, gaining the verdict with his headlock.

By snapping McGill's neck frequently and by seeming to look to his manager for advice, Lewis aroused the ire of the crowd which pleaded with McGill and stormed at Lewis.

The third fall was short, the champion winning in thirteen minutes and ten seconds, with a headlock.

After both falls, McGill lay stretched on the mat for some time but finally regained his strength after creating considerable anxiety among his well-wishers.

George Liston Catches 20 Pound Carp Fish

George Liston, at the pumphouse, caught a twenty-pound carp fish about 10 o'clock this morning. The large fish was caught with a small hook baited with a yolk of an egg. The yolk was taken from a chicken's body. On examining the fish, Mr. Liston found that it had only one eye.

This is one of the biggest "catches" reported this season, and Mr. Liston recommends the yolk of an egg as excellent bait.

McJimsey not to Enter Race for Governorship

Springfield Publisher Gives Out Statement Announcing Intention to Remain Out

Springfield, Mo., May 16—E. E. E. McJimsey, publisher of the Springfield Republican, will not make the race for the Governorship this year, he announced in a statement today. The statement in part follows:

"I have definitely decided I am not to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor this year. This decision is reached after carefully considering several score letters and messages from active party men throughout the State and the urgent importunities of a multitude of friends at home.

"I have been unable to convince myself that it would be acting with due consideration for my family and business were I to assume the expense, the hardships and the sacrifices incident to a primary campaign, even for so exalted an office as that of Chief Executive of the great State of Missouri. Moreover, two of the three announced Republican candidates for Governor said to me in advance of their filing that if I had made up my mind to become a candidate they were disposed to remain out of the running While I made no promise to either, I did give them both to understand that I was strongly disinclined to make the race under any circumstances."

Guy Lincoln, J. W. Swaney and son, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Crowson and Mrs. Albert Hinton and daughter of Pickering were Maryville visitors yesterday.

Walter Freytag and Dr. H. L. Morgan of Graham were in Maryville on business Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Denton of Bedford, Ia., were in Maryville yesterday.
